Public Forgiveness

FEATURING DR. SIMONE GUBLER, VISITING ASSISTANT PROFESSOR OF PHILOSOPHY AT UNC CHAPEL HILL

Professor Simone Gubler researches the practice of forgiveness. She takes a skeptical attitude to the moral value of forgiveness, especially in the context of public life, where attempts are sometimes made to address historic injustices (such as apartheid, colonialism, and genocide) using the language and practice of forgiveness. She argues that where states promote forgiveness in response to injustice, they harm vulnerable persons and undermine norms of justice.
